MATHEWSON BEST IN 1928

Permitted in That Year No More Than Two Runs in 32 Contests.

New York, Jan. 29.—In 1928 Christie Mathewson had one of his best seasons, and that is saying much, for that grand hurler had many of them. Of the 37 games that Matty won that season, in 32 of them he didn't permit more than two runs in any game. Or put it this way, in 14 games no runs were scored. Of course, all these names didn't go to the ball game. In 18 games only one run was scored in each contest, and in eight games the opposition scored two runs in each game.

Matty, like Walter Johnson, always gave his team an opportunity to win if they put over three runs. The team behind Matty, as a rule, took advantage of his superb hurling.

Walter Johnson, on the other hand, pitched many games wherein the opposition scored but one, two and three runs per game, and his teammates failed to help him. In fact, Walter was the victim of more than 100 errors than his hurler the game ever outlasted.

TO HUNTERS AND FARMERS

Ontonaga Fish, Game and Gun Club to Post Large Notice Appointing to All to Protect Farmers' Property and Rights.

Adopting a suggestion which has been followed in other parts of the state with gratifying success the Ontonaga Fish, Game and Gun club has caused to be printed large posters to be placed in country stores and business places as well as about the streams and highways which appeal to all hunters and fishermen.

After making conspicuous in double type that "Hunting in the Farmers' Woods and Planting in the Stream" that flow through his lands are privileges, the posters appeal to those fond of these pastimes to "respect the farmers' rights."

The large posters which are printed on heavy cardboard then make the following the specific requests of the fishermen and hunters:

"Don't shoot or injure his stock or fowl."
"Don't trample down his crops."
"Don't forget to close the gate or replace the bars."
"Don't destroy his fences or stone walls."

"Always protect his property."
"Guard against forest fires."
"And as all these are a gentleman and obey the law."

These are certainly wise admonitions and there can be no doubt that the landowners of this section will appreciate the efforts of the club to secure respect for the rights of the farmer.

At the bottom of the posters this suggestion is made:

"Join us and help conserve our natural resources by having fewer laws and more fish and game."

It is the intention of the club to have a quantity of these placards distributed and generally posted about this section. The club is certainly to be commended for its action in this important matter.

Ald Maple Sugar Growers.

Montpelier, Jan. 29.—The state forestry department, in furtherance of a project which it believes to be the first of its kind in the country, has contracted to grow 18,000 sugar maple seedlings for F. W. Morrison of Worcester, Mass. The seeds will be planted at the state nursery at Sharon this spring and when the little trees are three years old they will be delivered to Mr. Morrison at cost.

Mr. Morrison plans to set out the seedlings at Easton's River, Vt. They are to be planted six feet apart, making about 1,200 on an acre, on a hillside, so that when they reach the sap producing age the product can be collected on the gravity principle.

In developing the orchard Mr. Morrison intends from time to time to cut out the poorer trees for use as cordwood, so that at maturity only perfect specimens will remain.

HE BELIEVES IN RECIPROCITY

A Negro Tells Judge Buckner "Same to You" When Offered Advice.

Kansas City, Mo.—It happened at the session of the Jackson county parole board. Sixty-five men on parole from sentences in the county jail or the penitentiary were being questioned by the Circuit court judges as to whether the various provisions of the paroles were being obeyed.

Jesse Harris, a negro, was one of those questioned. Jesse declared he was working now and keeping out of trouble. As the negro started to leave the courtroom Judge Thomas B. Buckner, a member of the parole board, admonished:

"You be a good boy, Jesse."
"You do the same, Judge," returned the negro.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—With the country free from danger of a bituminous coal strike this year by virtue of the wage agreement recently arrived at in New York, the Federal coal commission intends to proceed with an investigation into the comparative efficiency of mining in non-union and union fields.

The commission will make a comprehensive study of wages and working conditions in both divisions of the industry.

More Bibles in the Country Districts.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Bibles have a larger distribution among farmers and the people of towns and villages in the United States and Canada than among city dwellers. This was the statement here of John A. ## WINE PLANTING MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Memorials to Live Arden on Arbor Day Memorial Service.

Washington, Jan. 29.—By State residents of this city have been invited to join the Massachusetts Society of Washington in celebrating Arbor day on May 1. In the Bay State Arbor day comes April 29, and on that day 25 memorial trees will be sent to the state county here for planting on the first state memorial avenue on the grounds of the Lincoln memorial. The trees are to be planted by Gov. Cor and the mayors of the 25 cities in Massachusetts.

Plans for the tree planting have been completed by Frederick W. Dailinger, president of the society, and Representative George L. Cain, vice-president of the society; Charles Lathrop, president of the American Tree association, and Louis C. O. Sherrill in charge of the department of public buildings and grounds. The avenue selected for the tree planting runs to the southeast of the memorial and just off the famous reflecting pool.

The American Tree association, which is celebrating the centennial of Arbor day fifty years before it happens, has called on Massachusetts people everywhere to mark the day by planting a tree for the old home state, and registering it with the association.

"This will be the first time," said Mr. Peck, "that a state will officially celebrate Arbor day some other place than in the state its citizens claim. It will also be the first state to celebrate in such a unique fashion the centennial of Arbor day in 1972, fifty years before it happens. To Massachusetts will go the honor of being first to plant a series of trees on the grounds of the famous memorial. Other states will follow the custom. The trees will be American elm, six to eight feet in height, to conform to the plans of Col. Sherrill for landscaping the memorial grounds."

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY

Similar Meat Markets

Contrary to the general impression, there has been for several years a steady decline in the per capita consumption of beef and veal in this country. It would be fair to assume that this decline indicates a similar decline in the consumption of other meats, that the habits of Americans as a whole have undergone considerable change since 1907. Parts of this decline may be said to be the large number of south Europeans who have entered this country since that date; they reside in vegetable. —New York Sun.

Nerve, Not Honor.

The suggestion made by Russia's foreign minister, that Russia and the United States go into partnership for the settlement of Europe's problems, could be all right if the United States deemed that the turning over of Europe to Bolshevism were the right solution of the problem. In the midst of her distress Russia is yet capable of emitting a little humor. —Wilkes-Barre Record.

Colorado's Laureate.

Colorado, ever a forward state, has stolen a march on her sister, and appointed a poet laureate. The distinction falls to Mrs. Nellie Burnett Miller, who for fifteen years has translated the glories of Colorado's landscape into verse. Nor has her muse neglected any of the old-fashioned themes that used to invite to rhapsody. Yet, it is reported, nothing from her pen has appeared in book covers. Either the publishers have been remiss or Colorado has its own notion of poetic values. —New York Tribune.

Russia and the Turk.

It appears from the cable news that the Russian Soviet troops have been concentrated in the Caucasus as to be an effective aid to the Kemal government at Angora. There has been no strengthening of their forces to the west, as might have been expected, except a slight concentration on the borders of Poland and Rumania, but the troops in the East are reported to be well armed with rifles and light artillery captured from Kolchak and others. —Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Dempsey's Problem.

Once again Mr. Dempsey visits New York and again he is confronted by a problem. Lying back in a plush chair with a barber striving in vain to massage the corrugations thought has graven on his brow, while a bootblack heightens the polish of his boots and a sommelier puts a high polish on his smile, Mr. Dempsey broods over his current problem. One million dollars have been offered to him for a series of three boxing matches, and $750,000 to appear in one moving picture, and even with a manager to advise him he cannot for the life of him decide upon which to accept.

THREE AS SNOW-BREAKS

WHICH PROTECTS PLANTING

The question should be a considerable distance from the place to be protected.

"Trees as snow breaks are practicable where sufficient space can be obtained to properly plant them," says Prof. Allen F. Arnold of the New York State College of Forestry.

"Any successful snowbreak, generally speaking, must be located considerable distance from the road or place it is to protect. A roadway may be protected from drifts by placing the break not closer than 100 feet and in cases where there are cuts six or eight feet deep in the road, it is advisable to have the snowbreak still farther back from 125 to 150 feet from the road.

"A snowbreak would be composed of two or three rows of trees. The use of low trees or shrubbery in separate rows is advisable as a combination barrier with taller trees. The rows of smaller trees and shrubs should be planted on the windward side to make that side of the snowbreak sloping instead of vertical. The sloping barrier deflects the wind upward and tends to raise the snow that is not stopped by the snowbreak high enough above the trees so the wind will blow it across the way.

"Soil conditions and the amount of money one can afford to spend on a snowbreak would have considerable to do with the kind of trees to plant. A good combination for an average soil would be a row of Carolina poplars in the first row or leeward row; a row of Norway spruce in the next; and the evergreens become large enough to effectively stop the snow from drifting. So the low evergreens such as red cedar, arborvitae and hardy native shrubs like gray dogwood, which can be used for the windward rows."

DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE WINS

Awarded Verdict in Suit Brought Against Alton Parties.

The jury in the case of the Dairymen's League Cooperative association, Inc., vs. Martin and George Holmes of Alton, on trial in supreme court in Illinois, rendered a verdict Saturday in favor of the plaintiff for $223.16. The jury had been out all night and came into court at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and asked for instructions on the question whether the plaintiff and defendant were equally bound by the contract. Justice Martin decided that they were. The jury retired and in half an hour returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff as above. It is understood that the jury stood seven to five in favor of the defendant up to the time of the agreement. The jury had been instructed to bring in a verdict that the contract was void under the circumstances the court permitted them to bring in an open verdict Saturday.

The attorneys for the plaintiff are satisfied with the verdict. The attorneys for the defendant say the case will be appealed. The ground of their appeal will be that the only issue submitted to the jury was that of the validity of the contract, and that 13 questions which they submitted were asked but.

At Alton, Ill., Jan. 29. —The Dairymen's League Cooperative association will be moved to New York City for the purpose of continuing its business.

AN OTSEGO FOSSIL HUNTER

Charles H. Sternberg, Native of Hartwick Seminary, Wins World Honors in Field of Paleontology.

The Dearborn Independent of January 20 contains an article headed, "The Life of a Fossil Hunter," which will be read with peculiar interest in Otsego county, and in particular at Hartwick Seminary, which is the birthplace of Charles H. Sternberg, the subject of the sketch. Mr. Sternberg, who is a son of the late Dr. Levi Sternberg, formerly principal of the seminary, and a twin brother of Dr. George Sternberg, who later became famous as Surgeon General of the United States Army, has for many years devoted himself to the study of the ancient animal life of the Western coast, going far afield in the practical work of discovering and unearthing the skeletons of prehistoric monsters.

The work of Mr. Sternberg was first with the late Prof. E. D. Cope of Philadelphia, to whom the world owes more perhaps, than to any other man as an authority on paleontology, and who advanced the sum of $300 to finance his first venture. Since that time Mr. Sternberg's work in his chosen field, which has embraced not only the Middle West and the Pacific coast of the United States, but that most fertile of fossil fields, the Red Deer valley in the Canadian province of Alberta, has won him world-wide reputation. Dr. Van Zittel of the museum at Munich declaring that his collection of Kansas and Texas vertebrates in memorial to his name. The story of Mr. Sternberg's work, which can be found in his book, "The Life of a Fossil Hunter," reads like fiction, but every word of it is absolute fact.

MAPLE PRODUCERS WILL MEET

Second Annual Meeting of State Association in Syracuse Next Week.

The second annual meeting of the Maple Producers' Co-operative association, Inc., which has many members in Otsego and Delaware counties, will be held in Syracuse at the association's warehouse on Feb. 6 and 7. According to an announcement made by Secretary F. L. Burnham, four directors will be elected at the meeting, two for two-year terms to succeed H. C. McKee of Delaware county and W. W. Avery of Wyoming county who have resigned from the board, and two directors for terms of three years to succeed Henry Kirch of Lewis county and John Marsh of Franklin county whose terms expire.

A statement recently sent to members of the association shows that 274 maple producers are members of the cooperative and that the association handled for them 144,480 gallons of syrup in 1932. The average sale price on the syrup marketed was $1.57 per gallon. The statement recognizes that returns to members have been unsatisfactory during the past year and points out as the chief reason for this condition the large expense of organizing and setting up facilities to handle and sell the members' product.

The association has recently been reorganized and E. E. Robertson, who has handled the New York state wood pool for the past two years has been named as its manager. The New York State Wood Growers' association.

Home Owners Are Backbone of Country, Say Butler

Ownership Should Be the Aim of Every Man, Is Belief of Nicholas Murray Butler Columbia University Head

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, is an "own your own home" advocate, as is shown in a recent letter to the National Real Estate association.

President Butler says: "The home is the foundation of orderly society and of a prosperous, contented and progressive state. Home owners are the backbone of the country. They naturally favor honest and economical government because they know that they pay taxes. They naturally wish good schools for their children, good roads for their trade and commerce, good churches for their worship and good public institutions for the care of their dependent or less fortunate neighbors. The man who owns his own home is really the head of a family, and his children and grandchildren have a place in which to grow up and upon which to look back with affection and pride. It would be an unhappy event if the number of home owners and home builders were to decrease in the United States. It would mean increased instability in life and in government with all the evils which instability brings in its train.

"It should be the aim of every man not only to have a home of his own, but to own that home, to beautify that home and to bring up his family in that home."

SOLDIERS VS. COOPERSTOWN

Fast Independent Men Thursday — Co. E Game Marched.
The Cooperstown Independents, who now have to their credit two victories over the last Company G team, will appear on the arena stage of Thursday night of this week, and endeavor to make it three straight from the military outfit. The soldiers have a few ideas of their own on the subject, however, and are determined to win this contest. The games played with Cooperstown have been two of the fastest, cleanest games of the season, and this should hold true for Thursday night's tilt. The two teams will be in the best of condition and a hard struggle is certain.

The Cooperstown team plays under professional rules, while Company G uses amateur rules, and therefore half professional and half amateur will be the verdict Thursday night. In the event of a draw, the Cooperstown team of Hinchman will be unable to appear on Wednesday night as previously planned, but arrangements are under way which will probably bring them to the city at a later date.

The Wesleyan Brotherhood of the First Methodist church will hold a men's banquet in the church parlors on the evening of Tuesday, January 26. Bishop William F. Anderson will speak. Newsboys' Badges

Newsboys between twelve and sixteen years of age are required to wear badges which show that they are regularly registered. At the office of the superintendent of schools, and that such boy is at normal development and physically fit for such employment. The newsboy's badge must be conspicuously worn wherever the boy to whom it is issued is engaged in the work it authorizes him to do. The color of the badge is changed each year, and all permits and badges expire annually on the first day of January.

Although the month of January has practically elapsed, there have been few applications for renewal of badge privileges, and the employment certifying officer has pointed out that it is a misdemeanor to sell papers without a badge or with a badge, the permit for which has expired. The local police officers and the school trustee office will see to it that no boy without a badge for the present year are allowed to sell papers in the city.

No child to whom a permit and badge are issued shall sell or expose or offer for sale any newspaper, magazine or periodicals after eight o'clock in the evening, or before six o'clock in the morning.

Badges for the present year are being issued and old permits and badges are being renewed at the office of the superintendent of schools on each school day between the hours of nine and twelve and one-fifteen and four o'clock. All newsboys must have badges.

LIBRARY ON WHEELS.

State of Vermont Carries Its Libraries to the People.

Montpelier, Vermont, Jan. 22.—The state of Vermont carries its libraries to the people. Of course the cities and many of the towns have public libraries, but the state free public library commission has found a way to reach the remote communities without library facilities and to aid the smaller institutions. This is done by means of what is popularly known as "The Book-Wagon."

In its five-month season which ended when the roads became snow covered the travelling library, a motor truck with the body so constructed as to make the large number of books carried easily accessible, make 100 trips to towns in all parts of the state. Loans of 1,500 volumes were made to 267 persons, nearly all of whom were new borrowers. Such collections of books were left in villages, which have no permanent library. Lessons in book making were given to the librarians of some of the smaller libraries and talks on books were given to various groups of villagers. Opportunity was given to the small town librarians to look over the new books. The total cost of operating the book-wagon was only $260.

STORK VISITS PULLMANS

Does Not Always Ascertain Whether Physician Is On Board.

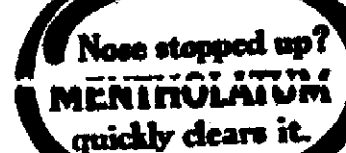

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Great as is the speed of the Pullman car, that of the stork is often faster, and often the benevolent bird catches the train. Many conductors and porters have assisted in ushering infants into the world with literally a flying start. The stork, according to the Pullman News.

The stork, although an intelligent carrier, sometimes fails to ascertain whether a physician is on the train he is pursuing. In such instances it is up to the conductors, porters and possibly experienced men and women passengers to assist in the glorious advent. The News says:

"On one occasion William Venn, general foreman of the Pullman yards at Kansas City, but then conductor of the car 'Bismarck,' aided and abetted the stork. The mother promptly selected the name of Venn Biscay Smith for son."

Porter Lou Thomas, now dead, was known as "Doctor" on the Erie run from Buffalo to Cincinnati because he had assisted in three births on his car. Porter Stephen L. Hopkins of the Minneapolis district had one of these experiences. The next morning Hopkins wrapped the mother and child in blankets and presented them to the awaiting husband and father.

"He gave me 50 cents, but I informed him there was no charge," narrates Porter Hopkins. "That night he returned the two blankets with $10."

COLLINS TRIAL RESUMES

Medical Witness Testify at First Session Following Long Adjournment—Jury One Trial to Prove That Collins Was Shot Near Front Door and Then Flew to Back of House, Where He Fell.

Norwich, Jan. 29. — Coroner A. R. Morse of Oxford was the first witness called at the resumption of the trial of Mrs. Frances Collins this morning in supreme court before Justice Abraham L. Kellogg of Oneonta. All of the jurors were in their seats and Justice Kellogg was only a few moments late in arriving on account of a delayed train. Coroner Morse had charge of the autopsy, which was performed by Drs. L. D. Meehan and Charles Chapin in the undertaking rooms at Greene the day after the shooting. Dr. Meehan testified that the body entered the house from the back and went to the front door and on a line with the right nipple, passing through the heart of the body and lodging in the tissue of the back.

Dr. Charles Chapin corroborated the testimony of Dr. Morse and testified that the other organs of the body were in a normal condition and that from three to five quarts of blood were found in the chest cavity. Death was due to hemorrhage due to the gunshot wound. Dr. Thomas E. Manley, head of the staff of the Norwich Memorial hospital, was asked long and detailed questions describing the wound and said that a man on the morning described was unable to walk fast or run a distance of 20 or 25 feet over an ordinary floor before collapsing. During the cross examination of Dr. Manley the heart was placed in evidence and marked exhibit number 51. Dr. Manley admitted that his opinion was based on the question and that he had not examined the heart carefully because of its condition, the tissues having been hardened by the preserving fluid.

John C. Lee testified that while a student in Fordham university he had observed a wide range of surgical operations in the various New York hospitals and during the World war was a surgeon behind the American lines in France and had operated on as many as 25 cases of gunshot and high explosive wounds in a single day. From his familiarity with such wounds he believed it would be possible for a person wounded in this way to walk or run the distance stated. Dr. George Manley testified that the quantity of blood found in the chest cavity indicated that the heart had kept on beating after the wound was inflicted, supporting the contention of the defense that after Collins was shot in the front hall he ran out of the hall to the back steps where he fell.

Woman Deposits 2800 Cents and 634 Nickels

Pittsfield, Mass.—A deposit of 2,800 pennies and 634 nickels, making a total of $37.70 was deposited in the Great Barrington Savings bank in that town by a woman residing in New Marlboro.

The coins weighed 18 pounds and were the accumulation of nine years' savings. This is the first time in the history of the bank that a deposit of this size in small coins has been received.

W. F. Chipman, a photographer of Norwich, identified some photographs which he made of the Collins house, taken from the Hubbard house across the road near the window from which Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard testified they watched proceedings on the night of the shooting. Eugene F. Mussen, a civil engineer, had measured the distance from where the camera stood to the back steps of the Collins house and it was 474 feet. He also measured the distance from the house to the door of the front hall to the threshold of the wooden door and it showed 29 feet.

Mrs. Elliott, the mother of the defendant, was recalled to the stand and testified that the front door of the house struck and that it was hard to open it until she soaked it about two weeks after the tragedy. Her testimony was supported by that of Wesley D. Steward, a taxi driver, who had taken different parties to the scene. He said that when he attempted to enter the house he had to throw his weight against the door to open it.
